

Background and qualifications

Review education and overall experience

Discuss how the candidate's education, background, and experience makes them an ideal fit for the role

Question - What makes you qualified for this role, and how has your education prepared you for working in this industry/ career?

Notes:

Strong answer that touched on the candidate's passion and desire to perform in the role. Started by mentioning relevant high school results, and linked these well with current skillset. Although a formal degree would make them more desirable, they meet the minimum eligibility requirements set out for this role.

Candidate then went on to give a concise overview of relevant work experience, and linked this well to how it would help them perform the duties required for this role. Although more time spent performing current duties would also make the candidate more desirable, they nevertheless linked the answer well with a convincing response. They have worked their way up in their current role which is also impressive and noteworthy. Candidate also mentioned they have an LSE certification which is useful in this line of work, and they closed the answer well by giving an excellent account of how they've taken personal responsibility for their own development through a proactive approach that underscores their motivation to learn and progress in the role.
